

Study Day

“Gilt and Gorgeousness”: Celebrating the 200th Anniversary of King George IV’s Accession to the Throne, with Barbara Askew

This Study Day will be held in the Rushall & Charlton St Peter Village Hall on TUESDAY 3rd March 2020 at 10.30 am prompt

Session One: The Compulsive Spender – tracing George IV’s developing taste as Prince of Wales and Regent. His fondness for Francophilia, food, flattery, wine, women and lavish decoration, culminating in his conversion to the oriental style and the Brighton Pavilion.

Session Two: The Greatest Royal Collector of Art – George IV furnished magnificently his palaces with the finest artefacts, paintings, sculptures, porcelain and silver and gold ware.

Session Three: The Grand Entertainment –His coronation was the most spectacular ever, appropriate to his vision of the monarchy. He transformed modest Buckingham House and decaying Windsor Castle into grandiose palaces suitable for royal entertaining and state visits.

The cost for the day will be £35 a head, including coffee and biscuits and a light lunch. Please note that The Arts Society Insurance covers only Members attending this Study Day.

Refunds will not normally be given. However, you may send a friend in your place.
